

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A process produces a glass overladding tube from a silica gel body. The process includes passing the gel body through a hot zone under conditions that cause partial sintering of the gel body and repassing the gel body through the hot zone under 5 conditions that further sinter the gel body into a glass overladding tube.